Organization of the Government.

In March 1863. the President made the following appointments of officers for the Territory as provided for in the Act, viz, Governor, John A. Gurley of Ohio. Secretary, Richard C. McCormick of New York. Chief Justice, John N. Goodwin of Maine. Associate Justices, William F. Howell of Michigan, Joseph P. Allyn of Connecticut, District Attorney, John Titus of Pennsylvania - Marshal, Milton B. Duffield of California, Superintendent of Indian Affairs Charles D. Poston of Kentucky. These appointments were all confirmed by the Senate, then in extra session.

On the 26th of May, Levi Bashford of Wisconsin, was made Surveyor-General. In July, Mr. Titus was made Chief Justice of Utah and the vacancy was filled by the appointment of Almon Gage of New York as District Attorney - + On the 18th of August Mr Gurley died and on the 21st of that month John N. Goodwin was appointed to the Governorship. Mr. Goodwin's place as Chief Justice was at the same time filled by the appointment of William F. Turner, of Iowa.

It was agreed by the original officers at the time of their appointment that they would start for the Territory on or about the 1st of July.

The private business of Mr. Gurley and others would occupy attention until that time. Moreover much laborious preparation for the long journey and for starting the government, must be made at Washington and other points in the States.

During July pictures in Mr. Gurley's family prevented his leaving home, and early in August he was taken with the illness which resulted in his untimely death.

Chief Justice Goodwin had already reached New York on his way to the West.

In a week from the date of his commission as Governor he started from New York for Leavenworth, accompanied by Secretary McCormick and Judge Allyn. A few days were spent at Cincinnati to learn what preparations Mr. Gurley had made for the overland journey, and a sojourn at Leavenworth only long enough to secure the government freight from the States, the stationery and the means of transportation to Santa Fe.

On the 26th of September, the Governor, Secretary, Judges Howell and Allyn, District Attorney Gage, and Surveyor General Bashford left Leavenworth, Chief Justice Turner overtook the company at Fort Larned. The party travelled via Forts Riley, Larned, Dyon, and Union, making brief stoppages at each of those points and reached Santa Fe on the 14th of November. They left Santa Fe on the 26th of that month and arrived at Albuquerque on the 28th. They left Albuquerque on the 4th of December and reached Fort Thorngate on the 13th of that month. Leaving there on the 20th they reached this post via the 35th parallel or Whipple route to the San Francisco Mountain, and the Pishon road from that point, at noon on the 22nd of January. Secretary McCormick and Judge Allyn with a squad of California Volunteers left the main party at Volunteer Spring, near the San Francisco mountain, on the morning of the 16th and arrived here on the seventeenth

The detentions on the road from Leavenworth to Santa Fe and from that place to this, were only those inseperable from a protracted journey with an escort and heavy train over the plains and mountains, at a severe season of the year.

The autumn and winter proved unusually cold and numerous snow storms were encountered as far east as Fort Lyon.

The officers entered the Territory on the 27th of December, and the government was formally inaugurated at Navajo Springs 40 miles west of Zuni, on Tuesday the 29th of December. ~~At 4 o'clock P. M.~~ the escort and citizens were assembled, and Secretary McCormick spoke as follows: Gentlemen:- As the properly qualified officer it becomes my duty to inaugurate the proceedings of the day.

After a long and trying journey, we have arrived within the limits of the Territory of Arizona. These broad plains and hills, form a part of the district over which, as the representatives of the United States, we are to establish a civil government. Happily, though claimed by those now in hostility to the Federal arms, we take possession of the Territory without resort to military force.

The flag which I now hoist in token of our authority, is no new and untried banner. For nearly a century it has been the recognized, the honored, the loved emblem of law and liberty. From Canada to Mexico, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, millions of strong arms are raised in its defense, and above the efforts of all foreign or domestic foes it is destined to live untarnished and transcendent.

At the conclusion of these remarks Hon. McCormick hoisted the "Stars and Stripes" and called for cheers for them which were given with a will.

Prayer was then offered by the Rev. H. W. Read. The oath of office was administered to Chief Justice Turner, and to Associate Justices Howell and Allyn, by Hon. McCormick, Governor Goodwin and District Attorney Gage qualified before Chief Justice Turner.

The following proclamation, issued by the Governor, was read in English by Hon. McCormick and in Spanish by Hon. Read:

Proclamation!

To the People of Arizona.

I John N. Goodwin, having been appointed by the President of the United States, and duly qualified, as Governor of the Territory of Arizona, do hereby announce that by virtue of powers with which I am invested by an Act of the Congress of the United States, providing a temporary government for the Territory, I shall this day proceed to organize said government. The provisions of the Act, and all laws and enactments established thereby, will be enforced by the proper Territorial officers from and after this date.

A preliminary census will forthwith be taken, and thereafter the Judicial Districts will be formed and an election of members of the Legislative Assembly, and the other officers provided by the Act, be ordered.

To invoke the aid and co-operation of all citizens of the Territory in any efforts to establish a government whereby the security of life and property will be maintained throughout its limits and its varied resources be rapidly and successfully developed.

The seat of government will, for the present be at or near Fort Whipple.

John N. Goodwin.

By the Governor:
Richard C. McCormick.
Secretary of the Territory.

Navajo Springs, Arizona Dec. 29th 1863.

At the close of the reading, the assembly joined in singing "the Battle cry of Freedom". A salute of fifteen guns was fired (from anvils) in honor of the Governor, and the establishment of the government, and with loud cheers for the Governor and other officers the Union and the President, the proceedings terminated.

Fort Whipple.

Fort Whipple is named in honor of General Amiel W. Whipple, who fell in the battle of Chancellorsville, and who, as a first lieutenant of Topographical Engineers, in 1853, explored the road leading from Albuquerque N. Mx., through Ariz. the 35th parallel to the Colorado of the West, which since that time has been known as the Whipple route. It was established by Brigadier General James H. Carleton, commanding the Department of New Mexico.

General Orders No. 27 dated at Santa Fe, October 23, 1863, announce;

I. All of the Territory of Arizona lying north of the Gila River, and East of the Colorado, except that portion occupied by Fort Mojave, which at present is garrisoned and supplied from the Department of the Pacific — is hereby created into a new military District, to be known as the "District of Northern Arizona"

II. The recent discovery of gold near the San Francisco Mountains, within the District of Northern Arizona, and the flocking hither of many citizens of the United States, both from the Atlantic and Pacific States & the Territories, and the consequent influx of many of the people from the Republic of Mexico, renders it necessary that a small military force should be sent to those new Gold fields to protect the miners from the Indians, and likewise to preserve order and give security to life and property in that region, until the civil officers of Arizona, now en route from the East shall arrive within that Territory, and shall establish and put in motion the machinery of a civil government and organize courts for the administration of justice.

The following Roster of Fort Whipple on the 1st of November;

Major Edward R. Wells, 1st Dragoons, Col. Vols.
Capt. Robert McEwen U.S.A.

Doctor Charles Bell Acting Assistant Surgeon, and Companies C. and E. 1st. Cal. Vols. under Capts. Corcoran and Brown, and Capt Pishon, with Forty seven and file of company D. 1st Cavalry California Volunteers.

The Headquarters of the Command were made at this place on the 10th of December, the establishment of the post dates from the 23d of that month.

The location of Post Whipple is in the Val de Chino; on the banks of the Cienega Creek, a stream of clear sweet water. The wide valley abounds in the best grama grass, and affords an extensive and excellent pasturage. The soil is apparently very rich, and vegetables might readily be cultivated. Though there is a general impression that irrigation is not necessary. When Capt. Pishon was here in the summer with Surveyor General Clarke of New Mexico, it rained everyday, but rains are not confined to any particular season. The deficiency of this immediate locality is the lack of timber. Fine wood, certainly is found on the hills three miles to the West: but logs for building, have to be brought from Granite Creek a distance of twenty miles. On that point excellent pine is obtained, and several thousand feet of planks and boards have been cut in the past, and in the mines, have been cut with pit saws. The timber closely resembles that about the San Francisco Mountains. The weather is admirable at this season. The nights are cold, the thermometer descending nearly to zero, but the days are worthy of May or June. The altitude of the locality is such as to promise a pleasant temperature even in midsummer. Capt Pishon states that the days in August were not oppressively warm, and that at night he required two or three blankets to sleep with comfort. The air is dry, pure, and remarkably salubrious; the winds is seldom high. The principal diseases of Arizona, and the ailments are not inferior to those of the Union.

The fort is distant about 70 miles a little West of South from the San Francisco mountain. From the Pinal mining district it is some 30 miles: from the Upper Semiampa 80 miles: from the Lower Semiampa 50 miles: from the Weaver mines 70 miles; from the Pima Villages 160 miles; from Tucson 240 miles; from La Paz, via Weaver 160 miles; from Fort Yuma 350 miles; from Albuquerque 450 miles: from Santa Fe 570 miles.

The troops occupy tents and huts, and no permanent buildings will be erected, until Major Willis and the other officers ordered by the General commanding "to fix the exact site of the post" have thoroughly examined the country, with a view to securing the best possible location.

February 1st

Today the Governor commissioned Coles Bashford to be Attorney General of this Territory. Mr Bashford took the oath of office, which was filed in the office of the Secretary.

In these proceedings you will institute in your official capacity as Attorney General of this Territory, and you will take the like steps in any case, which upon investigation you have reason to believe that a citizen is illegally deprived of his liberty.

Territory of Arizona—
Executive Department
Fort Whipple Feby 25th 1864.

Milton B. Duffield Esquire.
United States Marshal for Arizona.
Sir.

I have been requested by his Excellency the Governor to furnish you with the following instructions relative to the taking of the census of the White population of this Territory. It is directed that you shall proceed in the work with the utmost promptness and care, omitting no settlement, mining district or ranch in the Territory.—

The questions embraced in the schedules which have been submitted to you, must each and all be put in every instance.

In the choice of your deputies or assistants, you will be particular to secure men of Capacity, integrity, and good address, who will approach every family and individual, from whom they solicit information with civil and conciliating manners, and adapt themselves to the circumstances of each, to secure confidence and goodwill as a means of obtaining the information desired with accuracy and despatch.

In districts where there is a Spanish or Mexican population, assistants conversant with the Spanish Language should be appointed, or competent interpreters employed.

When travelling from house to house the assistants must observe care in preserving their papers from loss, and while at rest protect them from meddling hands.

In order to avoid error or mis-apprehension, the entries made should be read to the party from whom they are obtained, and every error or omission should be promptly corrected or supplied.

Should accident or sickness occur likely to interfere seriously with the timely prosecution of the duties of any of the assistants, their places should be filled by others without delay.

Each assistant will sign his name to each page of the schedules, and make oath or affirmation at the end of each set of the returns, that they were made according to oath and the instructions, to the best of his knowledge and belief.—

By the VIII article of the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo, a copy of which is herewith furnished you, it is provided that Mexicans then resident in the Territory, might retain the rights and title of Mexican citizens, or acquire those of citizens of the United States, but that they were under obligation to make their selection, within one year from the date of the exchange of the ratifications of that treaty; and those who remained in the Territory after that year, without having declared their intentions to retain the character of Mexicans, should be considered to have elected to become citizens of the United States.

Your assistants will be careful to inquire in every case whether such declaration was made or not.

The returns must all be made in duplicate to the Governor by or before the first day of April ensuing.

Before assigning your assistants to duty, you will provide each with a commission, given under your hand, and no one shall be deemed qualified until he has received the same, and taken and subscribed to the following oath or affirmation which shall be thereon endorsed to wit: "I, ... an assistant to the Marshal of the Territory of Arizona, do solemnly swear (or affirm,) that I will make a true and exact enumeration of all the White inhabitants, within the District assigned to me, and will also collect the other statistics therein, in conformity with the instructions which I have received, and will make due and correct returns thereof."

Which said oath or affirmation may be administered by any Judge of the United States Supreme Court in the Territory, and a copy thereof duly authenticated, shall be filed with you, and also one sent to the Governor.

As no provision has yet been made for the expense to be incurred in taking the Census, you will inform the assistants, that they cannot be remunerated at present but must await the action of Congress, which it is confidently believed will be within the present session, and in a manner sufficiently liberal to afford them a just compensation.

I am your very obt. servt.
R. W. McCormick.
Secretary of the Territory.
